

Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Sunday 14 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:

Mainly fine but cold. Wet and windy later. Milder overnight.

Today:

Bright but cold in many areas, with some hazy sunny spells tempered by a raw-feeling wind. Becoming increasingly cloudy and windy during the afternoon, with coastal gales developing as rain makes very gradual progress eastwards into the evening. Maximum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Tonight:

Very gradually becoming milder from the west through the night, but tempered by rain and strong winds. Perhaps drier but rather cloudy and murky in western parts into daybreak. Minimum temperature 1 deg C (34 deg F).

Monday:

Rain soon clearing east, leaving low cloud and mist that should slowly clear to sunny spells, in a milder and less windy day than of late. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:

Much milder than of late, but changeable and often rather windy, with some rain possible on all days of the period. Probably brightest on Wednesday, with some sunny spells.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.